Aledade is hiring! Aledade is a Series B startup at the forefront of value-based healthcare innovation. Our new model of primary care allows doctors to deliver better care at lower costs while practicing population health management and remaining independent. Aledade is looking for self-starters who are passionate about healthcare and thrive in a fast-paced environment to join our recent graduate Fellowship program and summer internship program. As part of the Aledade team, you will become an independent contributing member to our work, gain exposure to thought-leaders in the healthcare field, and develop new skills alongside a cohort of peers.

To learn more about our Fellowship and internship programs, hear from some current Fellows, and learn how to apply, register here for an upcoming info session! In the meantime, check out the Fellowship page on our website this article to learn more about Aledade’s work.
